NIKOLICA WINES

DINGAČ

Dingač is a Croatian premium quality red wine made of the plavac mali crni grape variety in a limited homonymous area of the Pelješac sub-region of the Middle and South Dalmatia wine-growing region. Pelješac is well known as a peninsula with fine vineyards and many excellent varieties of wine, famous all over the world. Pelješac wine is indeed considered to be among Croatia's finest wines.

Dingač is classified as the highest standard recognized by the Croatian regulations - "Vrhunsko Vino" ("Premium Quality Wine"). It was the first wine protected as "Premium Quality". Nikolica wines emerged from centuries of growing grapes and producing wine. These wines are top-notch, reflecting the long wine-growing and wine-making tradition of family Radović, Potomje, owners of the hotel. Nikolica Dingač is a premium dry red wine of controlled origin from the locality Dingač, which is located on the steep southern slopes of the Pelješac peninsula. With its ruby red color, fruity aroma and distinctive bouquet, Nikolica Dingač offers richness and unity of taste.

POSTUP

Postup is a premium wine since 1967. Sometimes called the younger brother of Dingač, it is produced from the indigenous Plavac Mali at the specific locations around Postup village as well in Potomje. The wine has dark ruby color and a full-bodied, balanced flavor with a hint of bitterness. It fits good with red meat, game or grilled fish. It should be chilled to a temperature of 18 °C.
